Commodity price risk

Coal and other bulk commodities accounted for ~63% of the Company's procurement expenditure. During FY2025–26, steel and its vital raw material viz. metallurgical coal and iron ore, maintained price stability relative to previous years. This was influenced by reduced import volumes from key consuming markets, and a tempered growth in steel production. Ongoing trade tensions and sanctions involving major global players such as the USA, China, Canada, Europe, and Russia introduced market volatility and periodically impacted supply availability. While, Chinese steel prices experienced continued softening, iron ore prices remained stable, receiving minimal uplift from typical seasonal weather-related disruptions or inventory restocking efforts. At the end of FY2025-26, the escalating tensions and direct engagements in the Middle East, primarily involving Israel, Iran, and the USA, posed a significant and immediate threat to global commodity markets. The primary concern is the potential for severe disruption to critical shipping lanes, i.e. the Strait of Hormuz, and direct attacks on regional energy infrastructure.

Tata Steel employs a comprehensive strategy to manage raw material price volatility and enhance supply chain resilience. Advanced commodity price forecasting tools are used for data-driven procurement, optimising purchase timing and inventory. Reverse auctions ensure competitive sourcing for various inputs. Furthermore, the Company diversified coal sourcing beyond Australia to countries like the USA, Canada, Mozambique, and Indonesia, mitigating concentration risk. Domestic sourcing in India from Odisha and Chhattisgarh is also explored for non-coking thermal coal, alongside contracts with local rake suppliers to improve logistics. Indigenisation efforts de-risk the supply chain by empowering local suppliers, and a sustainable procurement framework encourages reduce, recycle, and reuse initiatives with bulk material suppliers.

Additionally, to address the short-term price volatility, the Company also hedges certain commodities in the derivatives market. Exposure of the Company to key commodities throughout the year is given as below:

1. Total exposure of the Company to commodities (including commodities based on materiality): ₹33,471 crore.

2. Exposure to the Company to various commodities (based on materiality)

Commodity Name	Exposure in INR towards the particular commodity (crore)	Exposure in Quantity terms towards the particular commodity (Tonnes)	% of such exposure hedged through commodity derivatives
			Domestic Market		International Market		Total
			OTC	Exchange	OTC	Exchange
Coal	20,232	1,84,32,000	Nil	Nil	8.4	Nil	8.4

Refractory	1,955	1,87,703	Nil	Nil	Nil	Nil	Nil
Aluminium	1,507	59,738	Nil	Nil	5.8*	Nil	5.8

hedging started in December 2025.*

The Company has adopted a Risk Management policy that strives to anticipate and take preventive action to manage or mitigate risks. The Company has also adopted a Commodity Hedging Policy that takes into account total exposure of the Company towards commodities, commodity risks faced by the entity, hedged exposures, etc. as specified above.
